the first six darts are very similar, the second two are only slightly different the third two are even more different what is going on here? A: What you are seeing is a whited out dart. Its designed to show where the dart lay if you were watching a PDC broadcast. The lines are the treble 90's, and the top two doubles are just a bit closer to the lower three doubles. The dart is only visible on the screen if the TV is hooked up to a Sky+ box. Whilst you can see the first two sets of three darts on every current dart board you can't see the other two sets of three darts that were used in the dart. The lines used to represent them were also usually whited out. A: Here are two darts as seen on Sky TV, The referee/judge has to be watching to make sure there's no illegal structure. Delegates Await Breakout Session Amid Unclear Format By Andrew Rafferty Updated Sept. 14, 2012 7:42 p.m. ET In a much busier and more intense first session than expected, Congress spent Monday's first day of its 112th Congress deadlocked over the question of whether to let House Republican leaders introduce their controversial plan to rewrite Medicare. The measure is among the biggest items expected to be addressed in the final two days, but the House is controlled by Democrats, so GOP leaders are struggling to round up enough votes to pass the measure. Obama said the U.S. "must begin now to make the hard choices necessary to reverse the fiscal trajectory we are on." The president, who is seeking re-election in November, has proposed a package of $50 billion in new tax revenue over 10 years. "We need to make sure that our fiscal house is in order," he said, insisting that the package is balanced and paid for by cutting waste in the budget. "And we're going to make the tough decisions. We're going to make some investments that we've been putting off, and we're going to get our fiscal house in order." The president said that before the American people can come together to reach compromise, they must first acknowledge that "the solutions are clear." In remarks about the state of the economy as he spoke to the American 6d1f23a050
